The International Code of Zoological Nomenclature accepts a name as available after it has been published. It is important to know the exact date of publication to attribute correctly the authorship of a name published in homonymy or to decide which of two synonymous taxa should take precedence over the other.

Many journals indicate the exact date of issue of their successive fascicules. Because it is not always easy to find this information, it has been compiled into convenient lists for some of the major journals in nematology.

In some cases, the dates of issue were not printed in the journals. The dates were communicated by Dr. Merny for Cahiers ORSTOM and Dr. Van den Berg for Phytophylactica. They are here thanked for their help. All interested nematologists are encouraged to send me dates of issue of relevant journals published in their country. This information will be added to the next revision of this note.

A few dates were given as month and year only. Article 21(b) of the Code was applied to interpret these dates as the last day of the stated month.
